

What is a Best Friend?

Best friend, the word we use to describe someone close to us. But close can be anyone ,our families,our relatives,so why best friend's? Well the answer is simple. The people who make us love ourselves with being with them, the people who comfort you when your at your lowest, the people who you don't even hesitate to tell your crushes to, the people who know and keep every secret of yours can simply be put into the category of best friends These are people who understand you without an explanation,who comfort you with hesitation, who help with without any limitations and still don't expect anything in return. In fact these people are the ones we trust with our life and they understand more than parents ever can.To me a best friend is someone who doesn't leave your side
